I have been a practicing Solicitor for 25 years: the vast majority of that time being in the public sector. I have worked in Ayr and Kilmarnock. I would welcome the opportunity to listen, and echo the views of all Solicitors within the jurisdiction, be that in chambers or court matters. I would hope to be willing and open to the thoughts and views of the local Solicitors in areas of the law that I am unfamiliar with, their concerns now, and in the future and help shape the direction of the law in the area. I would hope to be able to not only listen to those concerns but also relay matters to all at any meetings I would attend on behalf of the area with a view to making measured views of Solicitors in the jurisdiction known within the Law Society. I would hope to make a constructive contribution and represent the jurisdiction in positive light within the Law Society.

I wish to reapply to stand as a member for the Law Society Council as I believe that it would benefit the local solicitors in my Faculty. This role would allow me to put forward the issues of local solicitors to seek the change required to make working in this profession more rewarding and fair.

I am dedicated to advancing the interests of the legal professional and serving the needs of the local community. With a profound respect for the principles of justice and fairness, I am committed to upholding the highest standards of ethics and integrity in the practice of law.

Having actively engaged in legal advocacy and community service, I understand the importance of effective representation and collaboration within the legal community. I am passionate about promoting diversity, equality and access to legal services, and I believe that serving on the Council provides a platform to advocate for these crucial issues.
